Wear it proudly.
You're a credit to your country.

We salute you, the finalists in the 17th annual National Science Fair —International. The World Book Encyclopedia recognizes your achievement.

If you were the average finalist, you represented nearly 3,000 other exhibitors in local and regional science fairs.
Many of you first became interested in science through science projects in The World Book Encyclopedia. These projects—a World Book specialty—are developed from studentdesigned science activities like yours. They are only one feature of the extensive, accurate, and up-to-date coverage of science by The World Book Encyclopedia.

As you go on to higher achievement, keep abreast of new advances with Science Year, The World Book Science Annual. Each year, it gives extensive, detailed reports on the latest work in space, earth, and life sciences.
