Do You Know?

Loosely woven cloth treated with a weedkiller is a safe and convenient way to apply herbicides to small garden plots.

John Greenwood, dentist to George Washington used hippopotamus ivory to make artificial teeth.

Extracts from over 400 plant species, thoroughly tested and retested during the past five years, have significantly inhibited tumor activity in laboratory animals, although further research may find many unsafe for human use.

A high-calorie, nourishing fat emulsion that could help prevent loss of weight in patients who must be fed intravenously for long periods is under development.

Crocodiles clean their teeth by permitting certain species of small birds to enter their mouths and pick off foreign substances that have become lodged there.

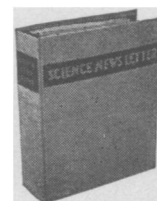

Crude oil is consumed in the United States at the rate of about eight and one-half million barrels a day.

The water supply of patients with high blood pressure and other diseases requiring salt-restricted diets can be an important but unsuspected source of sodium.
