Impact Recorder

Maximum impact to which a crate or package is exposed can be read directly off this one-ounce instrument made of high impact styrene. The 3/4-by-1/2-inch instrument will measure shock from 5 to 100 g's when taped to the object to be tested. Easily set and reset, several of these units can be attached to equipment or packaging to test maximum force from various directions.

New Steel Tape Rule

This 16-foot retractable steel tape has a control slide that can be easily locked with the thumb, keeping the extended blade from creeping back into the case. A snap-on clip on the case allows making measurements while the tape is attached to the belt, leaving both hands free for use. Its bright yellow blade with black markings is easy to read.
