Measuring comparator

Toolmakers, geologists, engineers as well as hobbyists will find this adjustable microscale comparator with 6x magnification useful for measuring minute parts. The two-inch instrument, easily carried in the pocket, uses interchangeable photo-etched glass reticles for measuring linear distances, angles, screw threads, holes and other dimensions. A reticle of the customer's choice is included with the instrument. Additional reticles are available separately.

Price: $14.50.
Microscale Ltd., Box 345,
Morton Grove, Ill. 60053.

Earth-sky slide rule

Suitable for students from junior high school level and up, this time and space instrument consists of superimposed movable disks for solving problems relating to time and day, distance and direction, astronomy, celestial navigation and orbits in space. All these functions are interrelated and can be read directly and simultaneously from the slide rule.

Price: $12.50.
