HOTTEST TEACHING MACHINE IN SCIENCE TODAY

It looks different. It is different. It's totally designed for science teaching. Academic StereoZoom Microscope by Bausch & Lomb lets science students relate to the specimen being studied without having to take a course in microscopy first.

This unique, Bausch & Lomb microscope combines stereovision with an exclusive zoom magnification that makes for a natural relationship between the student and the specimen. Scanning the field at low magnification or zooming to a specific detail at higher magnification is as non-technical as watching a quarterback on TV. And list prices for this American-made instrument start at $151.*

There is no longer an illumination problem. The turn of a knob allows selection of reflected light, transmitted light or a combination of the two, and it uses just one light bulb!

These new instruments are well built, with every safeguard to prevent damage to assure long, maintenance-free, lifetime use.

You have a need to know what's new. Write for the new catalog 31-2395 and our free demonstration offer, today.

StereoZoom. Reg. T.M. Bausch & Lomb.

America's Greatest Science • Optics • Hobby Mart
Helping to develop America's Technology for over 30 years.

Dr. Richard Klimisch does original catalytic research but his art is old masters.

Dick Klimisch saves his analytic abilities for his research.

His hobby is copying great works of art for his own collection. He doesn't invent his own artistic themes, he explains, "because there are too many great ones available to copy."

So he is currently working with paintings by Modigliani. Picasso and Hiroshige have also been recent favorites of his.

During Dick's six years at GM, on the other hand, he has been a real pioneer. He explains his job as "trying to understand the basic functions of catalysts, and applying this knowledge to the control of air pollution."

Dr. Klimisch is a supervisory research chemist for the Research Laboratories at the GM Tech Center in Warren, Michigan. His work on catalysts is helping GM build catalytic converters, exhaust-cleansing devices that will be used on many 1975 GM cars.

Dr. Klimisch is also working beyond current product development toward long-range understanding and product applications of catalysts.

Richard L. Klimisch is a unique example of the kind of interesting people working at GM to improve the quality of life for us all.
