Hologram Movies!

3-Dimensional Laser Photography Images, Actually Moving In Suspended Space — So Real You'll Want To Reach Out And Touch Them ...

This mystifying new visual technique combines conventional 35mm Movie Photography with Laser Holography (Advanced 3-Dimensional Imaging), to produce an incredible 3-Dimensional Moving Image in MULTI-COLOR, which is reconstructed with an ordinary 110V light bulb.

A major scientific and artistic breakthrough, our "Moving Kiss" is the historic forerunner of future full-length Holographic Motion Pictures!

How It's Produced: The "Moving Kiss" consists of 400 Vertical Holographic Frames (each one only 1.5mm in width) converted from motion picture film. The film is originally shot of a subject on a turntable in a specially equipped studio (only a few exist in the world at this time). Each of the 400 frames is then projected on a screen in sequence, and then holographed with a Laser, twice, to prevent "time smear".

The finished "Hologram Movie" is then gallery-displayed in a 120° marquee-style curved wall or shelf frame, complete with its own self-contained, rear-illumination light source. The enchanting, lifelike movement of the 3-Dimensional subject appears strangely suspended in thin air in the middle of the gallery frame, on an invisible stage. As you move in an arc of 120°, the attractive girl winks and blows you a fetching kiss, her eyes actually following and meeting yours. For a replay, simply return to your original position (Also good for seeing the action in reverse.).

Used commercially as effective traffic stoppers in stores, at trade shows, for promoting new products, etc., this futuristic new Art Form will be the most fascinating and spellbinding conversation/thought piece you have ever owned, and it is ideally suited for home or office display. (Although in a very early stage, this ingenious, spatial technique has been written up and heralded by The New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Time, Newsweek, Rolling Stone, Playboy, etc.)

Available For The First Time To The Forward-Thinking Consumer by The Halex Corporation. (Approximately 17" ht. x 17" diameter — Full instructions, Light Fixture & Bulb included.) Cost for "Moving Kiss" and complete frame is $100.00. Other Hologram Movie subjects are available and can be interchanged in the frame (see below).
