The Treasures of Tutankhamen will yield even greater riches once you've explored ANCIANT EGYPT.....

yours free for 10 days as a guest of

One of the three coffins of King Tutankhamen was made with 242 pounds of solid gold.

Graceful symbols form hieroglyphic art.

This gilded 6-foot lioness served as a pharaoh's bier.

In a blaze of gold and glory, Tutankhamen's tomb lay buried—undisturbed and undiscovered—since 1325 B.C. When it was unearthed in 1922, it was the world's most exciting archeological discovery—the most vividly detailed and perfectly preserved record of an ancient civilization.

If you're lucky enough to visit The Treasures of Tutankhamen museum show during its tour of this country you'll enjoy it even more with the help of Ancient Egypt—a fascinating way to meet the Egyptians as they really were at the height of their wealth and power.

A gay, happy people who thought of death as only a door to another equally happy life, they wrote lyric poetry to lost loves...formed the world's first united nation more than 3,000 years before Christ—and managed to sustain it for an astonishing 27 centuries. In Ancient Egypt, you'll see The Great Pyramid of Gizeh, built of stone blocks weighing up to 15 tons apiece, fitted together as precisely as a necklace clasp. You'll learn how workmen sealed it off so effectively (from the inside) it took looters 400 years to gain entrance. And in an entire section devoted to Tutankhamen's Treasure, you'll follow the search for this forgotten tomb, the exciting details of its discovery—and see the pictures that were taken at various stages of its unearthing. Beautiful color photographs of the treasures themselves capture the exquisite workmanship of the tomb's gilded animal gods and goddesses, royal daggers, vases, furnishings, coffins, and of course the golden mask that covered Tutankhamen's mummified head.

Written by Lionel Casson, Professor of Classics at New York University, Ancient Egypt gives you an intimate view of a people whose span of accomplishment has few rivals in human history. The brilliantly written text, the marvelous pictures, are typical of all the volumes in Great Ages of Man—a series brought to you by TIME-LIFE BOOKS, covering 5,000 years of the world's greatest civilizations. As your introduction to this splendid series, you're invited to enjoy Ancient Egypt free for 10 days, no obligation. Full details are on the order form—why not mail it today.

Written by Lionel Casson. Actual size: 8 3/4" x 10 3/4". 192 pages. More than 100 illustrations, over 60 in full color.
