Well illustrated with detailed drawings, detailed description and range maps for easy identification. Van Nos Reinhold, 1980, 948 p., illus., $19.95.

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF ASSOCIATIONS, 14 ed., Vol. 1, National Organizations of the U.S.—Nancy Yakes and Denise Akey, Eds. Describes 14,019 active associations, arranged in 17 subject categories. Contains an alphabetical and keyword index to facilitate locating a specific organization entry as well as entries in particular fields. Gale, 1980, 1566 p., $95.

ENTROPY: A New World View—Jeremy Rifkin with Ted Howard, afterword by Nicholas Georgescu-Roegen. The Entropy Law or the Second Law of Thermodynamics states that all energy flows from the orderly to the disorderly, from the usable to the unusable. Rifkin, a director of People's Business Commission, defines and discusses entropy for the general reader and tells how it applies to nuclear and solar energy, urban decay, military activity, education, health, economics and politics. The author then looks to the entropy law for an understanding of where we have made mistakes in the past and where we should head in the future. Viking Pr, 1980, 305 p., $10.95.

EXPLORING THE CITY: Inquiries Toward an Urban Anthropology—Ulf Hannerz. An attempt to provide a coherent and unified theoretical understanding of urbanism. The author draws together ideas about the city and relates them to anthropological theories and methods. Columbia U Pr, 1980, 378 p., $15.

EXTRAVERSION AND INTROVERSION: An Interactional Perspective—Larry Wayne Morris with foreword by H.J. Eysenck. Uses the vehicle of extraversion-introversion to explore the psychology of personality. Hemisphere Pub (Wiley), 1979, 217 p., $19.95.

THE FOSSIL HUNTERS: In Search of Ancient Plants—Henry N. Andrews. A story of paleobotanists, men and women who have, during the past 300 years, probed about in the rocks of the earth looking for vestiges of the life of ages long passed. Cornell U Pr, 1980, 421 p., illus., $28.50.

FROM ATOMS TO QUARKS: An Introduction to the Strange World of Particle Physics—James S. Trefil. Uses nontechnical language and takes the general reader through the sequence of discoveries that led from the atom to the nucleus to the elementary particle and, finally, to the quark. Scribner, 1980, 225 p., illus., $12.95.

FREUD: The Man and the Cause—Ronald W. Clark. Using new materials, letters, diaries and critical studies, Clark has written a biography of the founder of psychoanalysis that reveals more of Freud's inner life and its connections to his theories than do previous studies. Random, 1980, 652 p., illus., $19.95.

THE GUINNESS BOOK OF ASTRONOMY: Facts & Feats—Patrick Moore. A readable reference book by an outstanding British astronomer covering the sun, moon, planets, comets, meteors, meteorites, stars, constellations and galaxies. Also contains brief biographical sketches of 200 famous astronomers, descriptions of the world's great observatories and important dates in astronomy and space research. Guinness (Sterling), 1979, 288 p., illus., $17.95.

THE HERB BOOK—Arabella Boxer and Philippa Back. A beautifully illustrated guide to herbs: identification with color drawings, their history, how to grow them, medicinal herbs and how to prepare them and over 300 recipes for cooking with herbs. Mayflower Bks, 1980, 224 p., color/b&w illus., $19.95, paper, $9.95.

INSECTS AND ALLERGY: And What To Do About Them—Claude A. Frazier and F. K. Brown. Provides information about the significant venomous and disease-bearing insects in America, the health hazards posed by their stings, their bites or their mere presence in the environment and what to do about the hazards. U of Okla Pr, 1980, 272 p., color/b&w illus., $14.95, paper, $8.95.

LIGHT FROM THE SKY: Readings from Scientific American—Introduction by Jearl Walker. Articles covering such phenomena as ball lightning, auroras, air glow, mirages, atmospheric halos and rainbows. WH Freeman, 1980, 78 p., color/b&w illus., $11.95, paper, $5.95.

MAUI: How It Came to Be—Will Kyselka and Ray Lanterman. Presents for the general reader the geology of this island in the Hawaiian chain. Describes the landforms of the island and discusses the forces that shaped them. Also looks at the island as human beings have interacted with it, leaving their marks on its surface—fish ponds, villages, towns, irrigation ditches with their consequent greening of the isthmus. U Pr of Hawaii, 1980, 159 p., illus., paper, $5.95.

THE SEARCH FOR LIFE ON MARS: Evolution of an Idea—Henry S. F. Cooper, Jr. Recounts the story of the personalities and events involved in the search for life on Mars. The first part of the book profiles Carl Sagan, an ardent advocate of the possibility of life beyond our world, and tells of this astrophysicist's work on the Viking Project. The author then moves on to the other principal scientists involved and their work leading up to the landings and the biological experiments conducted by the Viking landers on Mars. HR&W, 1980, 254 p., $10.95.

You don't have to leave home to learn Mandarin!

Now you can learn to speak Mandarin right in your own home with the same outstanding course material developed at Yale University.

No Chinese characters are used in the text; the Yale romanization is used throughout and your attention is concentrated on the new sounds, words, and patterns of the language. The spoken language is written in polysyllabic "words", as they are normally spoken, and not as monosyllabic characters, which helps you to acquire the rhythm of the phrase as well as the pronunciation of the syllable.

The Speak Mandarin course is presented in 20 lessons, each containing a dialogue (or narrative), vocabulary, sentence patterns, notes, and a translation of the introductory dialogue. Materials consist of a 238-page text, a 165-page student's workbook, and an album of 7 audio cassettes totaling 5½ hours of recorded material.

This course turns your cassette player into a "teaching machine". With its unique "programmable" learning method, you set your own pace —
