Lucy about-face

I was interested in "Lucy's Family Problems" (SN: 7/2/83, p. 8) and enjoyed reading it very much. I was disturbed, however, when you said that "Johanson and Kimbel ... (had) come full circle" to White's point of view. If they had really "gone full circle" they would have still believed that there were two species at Hadar. It seems more likely they made a 180° turnaround, or "U-turn" in the recent political jargon.

Vanderbilt stays put

When I last visited the lovely campus of Vanderbilt University 12 years ago, it was located in Nashville. I had not heard until your July 2 issue, "A novel enzyme in basic metabolism" (SN: 7/2/83, p. 12), that it had been moved to New Orleans.

Considering what you recently had to say about the Mississippi River trying to shift its course, leaving New Orleans a salt-water port without a water supply ("Dammed If They Do and Dammed If They Don't," SN: 3/26/83, p. 204), I hope the University reconsiders its ill-advised move and returns to its Nashville campus.

J. Scott Morrison, M.D.

The "ill-advised move" took place in the editing process; last we heard, Vanderbilt is, and plans on remaining, in Nashville. —Ed.

Correction: The credit for the photo of Albert Einstein that appeared in the article "Many Dimensions in Gravity Theory" (SN: 7/23/83, p. 60) should read Lotte Jacobi/NOVA.

All books sent postpaid. Domestic orders only.

The A to Z of Women's Health: A Concise Encyclopedia — Christine Ammer, foreword by Dr. Mary Jane Gray. Provides a comprehensive guide to women's bodies, in health and disease, from birth to old age. Facts on File, 1983, 481 p., illus., $19.95.

Annual Review of Plant Physiology, Vol. 34 — Winslow R. Briggs, Ed. The introductory chapter of this volume outlines the personal and professional life of Pei-sung Tang, Institute of Botany, Academic Sinica, Beijing, China. Annual Reviews, 1983, 492 p., illus., $27.

Common Crisis: North-South: Co-operation for World Recovery — The Brandt Commission. The Brandt Commission's second report (the first was issued three years ago) spells out concrete proposals that need immediate implementation to foster constructive North-South cooperation. The focus is on emergency programs tackling the crisis through changes in finance, trade, food and energy policies. MIT Pr, 1983, 174 p., paper, $4.95.

The Experience of Old Age: Stress, Coping, and Survival — Morton A. Lieberman and Sheldon S. Tobin. Seeks to determine why relocation constitutes such a profound crisis in the lives of the elderly and why some are able to adapt successfully whereas others fail in the face of circumstances that clearly pose a stress for all. Basic, 1983, 439 p., chart & graphs, $27.50.

In Pursuit of the Past: Decoding the Archaeological Record — Lewis R. Binford. A readable account by one of the world's leading archaeologists of some of his principal work, which provides fresh insights into the life of early man and the evidence upon which our knowledge rests. Points up the fundamental challenge of archaeology as the tension between the abundance of the evidence on one hand and the difficulties in formulating warranted conclusions from it. Thames Hudson (Norton), 1983, 256 p., illus., $18.50.

The Lives of Plants — Doris M. Stone. The director of education at the Brooklyn Botanic Garden leads the general reader on an investigation of the plant world. Includes experiments that allow the reader to experience plant processes. Scribner, 1983, 304 p., illus., $15.95.

Report on the Shroud of Turin — John H. Heller. The Shroud of Turin is, according to the epilogue, the most intensively studied artifact in the history of the world. This is an account of the work of 40 American scientists, volunteers from many different disciplines, who spent four years using modern instrumentation investigating how the image was formed on the shroud. Dr. Heller was one of the members of the Shroud Research Team. HM, 1983, 225 p., color/b&w illus., $15.95.

Your Premature Baby: The Complete Guide to Premie Care During That Crucial First Year — Robin Marantz Henig with Anne B. Fletcher, M.D., foreword by Benjamin Spock. Offers advice and support to guide parents through the first year of a premie's life, from the baby's hospital stay through every stage of development. Dr. Spock in the foreword says the book "explains everything that any parent would want to know about prematurity." Rawson Assoc. (Scribner), 1983, 301 p., illus., $14.95.

MORE SCIENCE BRAINTWISTERS AND PARADOXES

By Christopher P. Jargoeki

Why is the full moon about nine times brighter than a half-moon even though its lighted area is only twice as large?

Is it possible to propel a sailboat by mounting a large fan and directing the blown air into the sails?

Why, after stirring, do tea leaves collect in the center of a cup of tea and not at the perimeter as in a centrifuge?

Nearly 200 intuition-eluding, seemingly logic-lacking, and provocative puzzles to challenge the preconceptions of the most spirited puzzle enthusiasts.

Van Nostrand Reinhold, 1983, 142 pages, 9½ x 6¼, hardcover, $14.95
