"A guide to surviving the turbulent eighties. No financial person should be without it!"

— Dr. Irwin L. Kellner, Senior Vice President and Chief Economist, Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company

"The changes now underway across the financial services industry are so fundamental and far-reaching as to stun and confuse almost everyone, including most financial executives. Only a keen seasoned analyst with diversified experience in banking, investments, and other financial markets in the U.S. and abroad could possibly bring a useful, constructive perceptive and new sense of direction to the field. That is precisely what Alan Gart has accomplished in his excellent volume."

— Walter E. Hoadley, Former Executive Vice President, Bank of America

"A timely and provocative appraisal of the revolutionary changes that lie ahead!"

— Robert G. Dederick, Under Secretary for Economic Affairs, U.S. Dept. of Commerce, and Former Senior Vice President, The Northern Trust Company
