After Man: A Zoology of the Future — Dougal Dixon, introduction by Desmond Morris. The scenario is about 50 million years from now; the animals brought to life were created by contemplating a future evolution on our planet closely based on species that exist at present. The author's setting, in the distant future, has given the members of his new animal kingdom time to undergo dramatic changes in structure and behavior. Morris, in the introduction, indicates that Dixon has "created his animals so painstakingly that each kind of animal teaches an important lesson about the known processes of past evolution — adaptation and specialization, convergence and radiation." Originally published in hardback in 1981. St. Martin, 1983, 124 p., color/b&w illus., paper, $9.95.

Annual Review of Microbiology, Vol. 37 — L. Nicholas Ornston, Ed. Articles in this volume range from the immunology of malaria to the evolution of wall-less prokaryotes. Annual Review, 1983, 676 p., illus., $27.

Care of the Wild: Family First Aid for All Wild Creatures — W. J. Jordan and John Hughes. Offers information about what to do for wildlife casualties, ranging from automobile and hunting injuries to poisoning and other ills. Organized by type of wildlife: birds, mammals, snakes, etc., the book explains care for each. Handling hazards, initial care, feeding, diagnosis and treatment, general care and release are some of the topics covered. Rawson Assoc, 1983, 223 p., illus., $13.95, paper, $8.95.

Clocks and Watches — Hugh Tait. An account of the clocks and watches in the British Museum that best demonstrate the main stages of development in the evolution of the mechanical timepiece since the Middle Ages. Beautifully illustrated. Harvard U Pr, 1983, 72 p., color/b&w illus., paper, $6.95.

Diabetes: A New & Complete Guide to Healthier Living for Parents, Children & Young Adults with Insulin-Dependent Diabetes — Lee Ducat and Sherry Suib Cohen. A "coping" manual for the problems and demands of daily living with diabetes. Discusses, for example, how to deal with doctors, teachers and other children; how to set and achieve reasonable goals for diet, exercise and testing; and how to handle parties, camp and emergencies. Har-Row, 1983, 253 p., $13.95.

McGraw-Hill Dictionary of Scientific and Technical Terms — Sybil P. Parker, Ed. Contains more than 115,000 definitions in science, engineering and technology. A thoroughly updated and revised edition by the staff of the McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of Science and Technology. McGraw, 1983, 3rd ed., 1,846 p., illus., $70.

The Small Garden — John Brookes. Many illustrations add to this garden book, which covers garden design, garden construction with detailed instructions for building walls and paving, appropriate plants for the small garden and how to design with plants. The main section of the book is devoted to successful small gardens. Originally published in hardback by Macmillan in 1978. Van Nos Reinhold, 1983, 256 p., color/b&w illus., paper, $13.50.

HIGH SCHOOL

A Report on Secondary Education in America

The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching

Ernest L. Boyer

This new, extensive report on the American public high school is not merely an examination of where we are now, but a strong recommendation of what can and must be done to reinstate the values of public education for the future. High School evaluates the performance of the American high school as an institution; looks at students, teachers, the principal, the classroom itself, the curriculum; and discusses the school's vital role in preparing students for college as well as for a vocation.

High School will be heralded by educators and parents alike as it provides a theoretic basis as well as a clear directive for renewing confidence in the American public school system.
