

SAFARI

THE EAST AFRICAN DIARIES OF A WILDLIFE PHOTOGRAPHER

GÜNTER ZIESLER and ANGELIKA HOFER

"7:30 a.m.: Mist hangs over the plains and on the slopes of Paradise Hill a group of topis stands forlornly. The sun appears above the horizon like a fiery ball, casting its still faint light across the scene..."

Günter Ziesler, one of the world's finest natural history photographers, has spent a total of one year documenting the drama and spectacle of East Africa's unique wildlife. From their van, he and Angelika Hofer witness some of the most fascinating animal behavior to be seen in the world. So sit back, turn the pages and enjoy your own 'armchair safari' to the game parks and reserves of East Africa.

"8:40 a.m.: We drive to where we expect the wildebeest will enter the water and we stop between some bushes. The thunder of hooves and continual bel-lowing sound like waves breaking on a distant shore. The noise gradually gets louder. The wilde-beest are coming..."
