

SMITHSONIAN FAMILY LEARNING PROJECT

Twelve
Exciting
Experiments
— One Each
Month

• The activities are based on materials generally found at home, and teach that “science” is all around us, not just in the lab. • GIANT-SIZED and beautifully designed, the calendar brightens up any room! • Winner of a prestigious Parents’ Choice award and the N.Y. Art Director’s Club design award. • Experiments include building a terrarium; taking plaster casts; and discovering rainbows. Also, testing for sugar in favorite foods; making a cartoon “film”; and many other wonderful activities. • Enthusiastically reviewed by Sesame Street, Parent’s Magazine, Scholastic News, Gifted Children’s Newsletter, Instructor, Pro-Education, Learning,

School Library Journal, Redbook, McCall’s and many others. • This is what the National Science Teachers Association (Science and Children) said about the calendar: “. . . it offers children the chance to learn that science is not only all around them, but is also inviting, accessible, and fun.” • Great for home use! • Great for classroom use!

7,300 authored articles by the world's leading scientists

Combining the accessibility of a dictionary with the thoroughness of a full-length encyclopedia, the McGraw-Hill Concise Encyclopedia of Science and Technology brings the forefront of scientific research to your fingertips.

World-renowned scientists and faculty share their definitions, explanations, insights, and opinions on all aspects of:

- physics
- biology
- astronomy
- computer science
- mechanical engineering
- chemistry
- geology
- mathematics
- electrical engineering

What Your $9.95 Buys You

- a 2,000-page treatise worth $95.00
- more than 7,300 alphabetically arranged, cross-referenced articles
- 1,600 illustrations and line drawings, many in two colors
- a 30,000 entry index
- measurements in both US and SI units
- comprehensive bibliographic and data base listings
- membership to the oldest and most respected science book club

And for you, it's only $995. You also get:

● Bibliographies and Data Bases—documenting hundreds of books and journals arranged by subject category, as well as 81 of the leading scientific data base systems

● Appendices—containing measurement systems and conversion tables; mathematical signs, symbols, and notations; fundamental constants; chemical elements listed both alphabetically and on a periodic table; semiconductor and electronic symbols; etc.

● A 30,000 Entry Index—providing you with easy access to the information you need.

And all this is yours for just $995 when you join the Library of Science book club. So send for your copy today.

About The Library of Science... The Library of Science is the nation's oldest and most respected science book club.
