

Two new Peterson Field Guides

Hawks: The first thorough field guide to one of the most popular subjects in nature. The guide includes:

- All 33 species of North American hawks and other diurnal raptors, including eagles, falcons and vultures
- Descriptions, paintings and photographs of each species in various plumages and postures
- The famous Peterson Identification System, which pinpoints the key characteristics used to tell one species from another

Mushrooms: The product of over a decade of work by two of the country's most distinguished mycologists. It covers North American mushrooms more accurately and completely than any field guide available, featuring:

- Over 500 species described and illustrated, most in color
- The famous Peterson Identification System for field identification
- Recipes for delicious wild mushroom dishes

Twelve other guides available at $12.95:

- Atlantic Seashore
- Trees & Shrubs
- Mammals
- Insects
- Western Birds
- Eastern Birds
- Animal Tracks
- Shells of the Atlantic
- Edible Wild Plants
- Rocky Mountain Wildflowers
- Northeastern/Central Wildflowers
- Eastern/Central Reptiles & Amphibians

All of the guides are full-color illustrated and range from 280 to 428 pages.

BIOLOGICAL DIVERSITY

Explore the issues from many perspectives

New from the National Academy of Sciences...

This beautifully illustrated new volume from the National Academy of Sciences is edited by Harvard biologist E. O. Wilson and calls attention to a most urgent global problem: the loss of countless plant and animal species to the demands of economic development and the pressure of human population growth.

ISBN 0-309-03739-5; 1988, 550 pages, 6 x 9, color photographs, index, paperback, $19.50
ISBN 0-309-03783-1; hardbound, $32.50

Available February 1988.

Also available is a 45-minute videotape adapted from a teleconference on biodiversity sponsored by the National Academy of Sciences and the Smithsonian Institution. BIODIVERSITY: The Videotape — colorful, lively, and authoritative — can easily stand alone or serve as a supplement to the book.

ISBN 0-309-03784-0; VHS, $24.50

Available February 1988.
