ANCIENT EGYPT

THE LAND AND ITS LEGACY

T. G. H. James

To the ancient Egyptians themselves a mummy was not an object of curiosity but the focus of a complex burial ritual, and a fine statue made for a temple sanctuary was an object of worship, not a work of art. To illuminate the real significance of Egypt's legacy, James takes the reader back to the sites from which such pieces came. He follows the Nile from the Delta to Nubia, via the great monuments of Memphis, Abydos and Thebes, and shows why these places were to provide such superb evidence of the Egyptian achievement. His evocative text and the more than 120 color and black and white illustrations combine to produce a book which will make a visit to the Egyptian galleries of a museum, or a journey to Egypt itself, a very much more rewarding experience.

WASPLEG and other Mnemonics

Easy Ways to Remember Hard Things

By Bart Benne

Benne apparently has listed every mnemonic there ever was in every field. A lot of them he has made up himself. There's no point in trying to read this book as though it were a novel. You might have no use for many of the mnemonics. Do you care about the order of the twelve cranial nerves, or the order of the spectral classes? Probably not. However, as you leaf through the book, you will find some that you might indeed find useful. Or if you come across something that you need to remember, you might check the book in the appropriate chapter and see if a mnemonic already exists. Again, by studying the mnemonics you will get a notion of how to make up one for yourself. But most of all tell yourself this—this is an absolutely unique reference book. There is nothing else like it in the world and if you find something useful here, then in all likelihood, you would be unable to find it anywhere else.

Imponderables, David Feldman. The answers to some of life's everyday mysteries, such as which fruits are in Juicy Fruit gum and why an X stands for a kiss. Morrow, 1986, 262 pages, 5 3/4" x 8 3/4", paperback, $6.95.

The Secret House, David Bodanis. Electron micrographs, thermographs and computer-enhanced X-rays reveal the hidden little dramas happening around us all the time. Simon & Schuster, 1986, 9 1/4" x 7 1/4", 223 pages, paperback, $9.95.

Archaeology & Language, Colin Renfrew. Renfrew points out new links between archaeology and language, looking at the puzzling similarities that are apparent across the Indo-European family of ancient languages. Cambridge Univ. Press, 1987, 346 pages, 9 1/2" x 6 1/2", hardcover, $29.95.

The Mathematical Tourist, Ivars Peterson. Imagine a world of chaos and order, of cryptography and code breaking. A world of labyrinths, higher dimensions and soaring fractal towers. This is Mathland, where the only thing to be expected is the unexpected. In The Mathematical Tourist, SCIENCE NEWS mathematics/technology editor Ivars Peterson takes readers on an unforgettable guided tour through this fascinating terrain, providing a true insider's understanding of the exciting and important discoveries being made at every turn. W.H. Freeman, 1988, 256 pages, 6 1/8" x 9 1/4", hardcover, $17.95.

The Bird Feeder Book, Donald and Lillian Stokes. An easy guide to attracting, identifying and understanding your feeder birds—for the beginner or experienced birder. Little, Brown & Co., 1987, 8 1/2" x 11", 84 pages, paperback, $8.95.

Why Do Clocks Run Clockwise? . . . and other Imponderables™, David Feldman. Here are the answers to questions that have been keeping you and your loved ones up nights, questions that have driven families to feuds, questions that nag and nag and just won't let go. Feldman's witty and irresistible compendium of knowledge goes where other reference books fear to tread, uncovering closely guarded secrets, revealing long-hidden facts, and, like all invaluable works of detection, never letting well enough alone. Harper & Row, 1987, 251 pages, 8" x 5 1/4", paperback, $7.95.

The Facts on File Visual Dictionary. Look up the word from the picture—find the picture from the word. Facts on File, 1987, 797 pages, 9 1/4" x 7 1/4" x 2", hardcover, $29.95.

Four fun ideas from Klutz Press: The Klutz Yo-Yo Book is a complete description of yo-yo tricks and a fully illustrated compendium of the yo-yo's history. Includes a yo-yo. By John Cassidy. 7" x 9", paperback, $9.95. The Unbelievable Bubble Book comes with an apparatus that is capable of making 6-foot-diameter shimmering rainbow bubbles. By John Cassidy and David Stein. 6" x 9", 112 pages, paperback, $9.95. The Aerobie Book is the definitive word on the aerobie's spirit, science and practice. Comes with an aerobie. The Care & Feeding of Ideas, James L. Adams. A tour through the unconscious mind, the brain and nervous system, and the storehouse of memory. Points out how they work (and conspire against us) when we tackle problems. Shows that bad problem-solving habits can be broken, that money and time are your muse's best friends, that creativity involves risk but the risk is worth it and that the stereo you bought with your last bonus was not a luxury but a necessary reward. The author illustrates his arguments with ingenious games and exercises that will surprise you with what they reveal about your patterns of thought. Addison-Wesley, 1986, 223 pages, 9" x 6¼", paperback, $8.95.

How to Think about Statistics, John L. Phillips, Jr. A common-sense introduction to the logic behind statistical analysis and problem solving. Instead of focusing on numerical computations, it emphasizes the thinking behind the numbers and shows you how statistics are applied in such fields as psychology, education, politics, sociology and social work. W. H. Freeman & Co., 1988, 224 pages, 6" x 9¼", paperback, $9.95.

People of Chaco, Kendrick Frazier. A thousand years ago in northwestern New Mexico a great American culture rose and fell — the Indian culture of Chaco Canyon, the ancestors of today's Pueblo people. This is the first full-length book for the general reader on this spectacular array of ruins. W.W. Norton & Co., 1986, 6" x 9", 224 pages, paperback, $9.95.

The Perfect Puppy, Benjamin L. Hart and Lynette A. Hart. Look beyond looks or size to consider what it would really be like to share your home with a poodle or a hound or a boxer. Benjamin and Lynette Hart profile 56 popular dog breeds, focusing on 13 key behavioral traits. Their profiles are based on interviews with obedience judges and veterinarians who have a thorough knowledge of how a great variety of breeds act in different situations. W.H. Freeman and Co., 1988, 182 pages, 5¼" x 8", paperback, $9.95.
