

Summer Fun for Kids!

Bugs to Bunnies. Hands on activities that teach children ages 4 to 7 the science of animals. Kids learn through play about the diet, defenses and habitats of mammals, fish, birds, reptiles, insects and more. Easy to use at home or in the classroom. 1989, 192 pages, 11" x 8½", paperback, $14.95. BugsBunnies

The Outside Play and Learning Book, by Karen Miller. Hundreds of play and learning activities for young children to use outdoors. Children learn while playing with raindrop painting, suds machines, shadow monsters and more. Miller has drawn from her experience in working with preschool centers all across the United States. The result is an encyclopedia of fun, challenging and mind-stretching activities to do outdoors with young children. 1989, 253 pages, 11" x 8½", paperback, $14.95. OutPlayLearn

Critter Carnival. This new approach to "BUG-OLOGY" allows the child to collect, study and observe the behavior of critters of all sorts. Afterwards, the insects can be safely returned to their environment. By using the special forceps, net and scoop supplied, bugs can be collected and easily put into the Critter Carnival where they tumble and climb over seven amusements or visit the built-in watering hole for a drink. This patented insectarium is complete with four built-in and one removable magnifier, and one plastic lady bug. An excellent "How to..." critter guide explaining who to invite (and who not to invite) to join in the carnival completes the package. Recommended for ages 6 and up. $10.95. CritCarnival

The Nature Lab. Explore the fascinating subjects of animal life, geology, plant life and marine biology with more than 50 activities and experiments. Nature Lab includes specially designed observation lab, fossils, rocks, minerals, sea monkeys, seashells, seeds, planting soil, dioramas, magnifying insect viewer, a full-color, step-by-step 32-page activity book and much more. Recommended for ages 9 and up. $39.95. NatLab

Bug Patrol. Clip this on your belt and start patrolling for some bugs! Unique sliding magnifying glass lets kids view the bugs while they move. Collect ants, spiders, caterpillars, ladybugs and others. Recommended for ages 6 and up. $2.95 Bug-Patrol
