Do you panic at the sight of a tax form? Do you break out in a cold sweat when you have to calculate a tip? Does the prospect of figuring price discounts and pay increases leave you weak?

WHERE DO I PUT THE DECIMAL POINT?

- Reveals the degree of your "math-phobia" . . . enabling you to zero in on your blind spots
- Offers confidence building and self-supporting techniques
- Retrains you in essential math skills you may have forgotten . . . or never learned in the first place
- Makes math understandable, undaunting and fun, with pictorial and graphic aids, quizzes and games.

Foreword by John Naisbitt

Food is the oldest and safest preventative medicine in the world — nature's pharmacopoeia. Many common foods we take for granted can actually help fight and even prevent disease. Now, Jean Carper, author of the bestseller The Food Pharmacy, blends the wisdom of ancient civilizations with our own folk traditions and the latest scientific findings to present a cookbook of delicious recipes designed to help you reap the most therapeutic benefits from the foods you eat.
