The Intelligence of Dogs

A Guide to the Thoughts, Emotions, and Inner Lives of Our Canine Companions

by Stanley Coren

If you've ever wondered what is really going on inside your dog's head, here is your chance to find out. In this remarkable book, psychologist and dog trainer Coren speculates on dog consciousness, feelings, and communication skills. He tells how to evaluate your own dog's intelligence, how to read its body language, and how to tailor a training program to suit its needs. And, yes, he does rank the intelligence of more than 100 canine breeds. See how your best friend rates!

Tensegritoy

Appropriate for the serious construction toy aficionado and the intellectually curious, this kit demonstrates advanced principles of structure in engineering, physics, and geometry. Tensegritoy models the distribution of forces in matter by using tensional and compressional materials together to create structures that are flexible, lightweight, and surprisingly strong. You can construct more than 100 different designs that, once complete, can be squeezed, bounced, thrown, and transformed.

Recommended for age 10 and up. Includes 30 12-inch hardwood dowels with brass-tipped elastic and vinyl caps (extras included) and an illustrated 32-page manual with information for advanced exploration.

The Straw Bale House

by Athena Swentzell Steen, Bill Steen, David Bainbridge, and David Eisenberg

A house made of straw? Yes! Whether you build an entire house or something more modest—a home office, studio, or guest cottage—plastered straw bale construction is an exceptionally durable and inexpensive option. What's more, it's fun, because the technique is easy to learn and do yourself. The authors outline the benefits of this construction, such as superinsulation, good air quality, speedy construction, low cost, and resistance to fire, as well as possible designs.

Mindtrap

Cards listing more than 500 classic puzzles, murder mysteries, conundrums, and trick questions, will challenge the way you think. One team reads the questions while the other team solves the puzzle. But the clues are often traps, and the answers are occasionally so obvious they are impossible. The first one to advance to the end of the optical illusion maze wins.

Made in America

An Informal History of the English Language in the United States

by Bill Bryson

The author of Mother Tongue focuses on American English and history, telling how Hollywood and Chevrolet were named, why Americans drive on the right side of the road, and how a lonesome hamburger stand on Route 66 provided the inspiration for McDonald's, among other anecdotes about how Americans express themselves.

Word Spin Scramble™

Great for at home or on the road, this action-packed word game is handheld and doesn't require a game board or have a lot of pieces. In fact, the 16 wheels are held together by magnets, allowing you to rearrange the wheels or make the game decks larger or smaller. Spin the magnetic deck and add up the point value of every word you find; the highest score wins. Play with one, two, or more players or teams.

Recommended for age 7 and up. Includes 16 magnetic wheels, timer, pad, and pencil.
