

Shatter the myths and mysteries surrounding bioecology with

The LIBRARY OF CONSERVATION BIOLOGY

yours for only $5.95

as your introduction to The Library of Science

You simply agree to buy three more books—at significant savings—within the next 2 years.

Hawks in the Hand: Adventures in Photography and Falconry

Frank and John Craighead

"[This story] marked the Craigheads' entry into the field of bioecology, to which they have made landmark contributions."

—National Geographic Centennial Awards, 1988

Accompany the Craighead brothers on their early adventures and discover how the natural world yields fascinating insights about animal behavior, particularly that of noble birds of prey.

Naturalist

Edward O. Wilson

"One of the greatest scientific autobiographies ever written."

—Alan Lightman

Wilson details his role in the emergence of sociobiology and the whirlwind of controversy surrounding his career, including clashes with prominent academics.

Dinosaur in a Haystack: Reflections in Natural History

Stephen Jay Gould

"Mr. Gould is an exceptional combination of scientist and science writer. . . . He is thus exceptionally well placed to tell these stories, and he tells them with fervor and intelligence."

—James Gleick, New York Times Book Review

Find out how an 1842 receipt documenting the purchase of beer and sausage demonstrates the provenance of an extinct antelope, and much more.

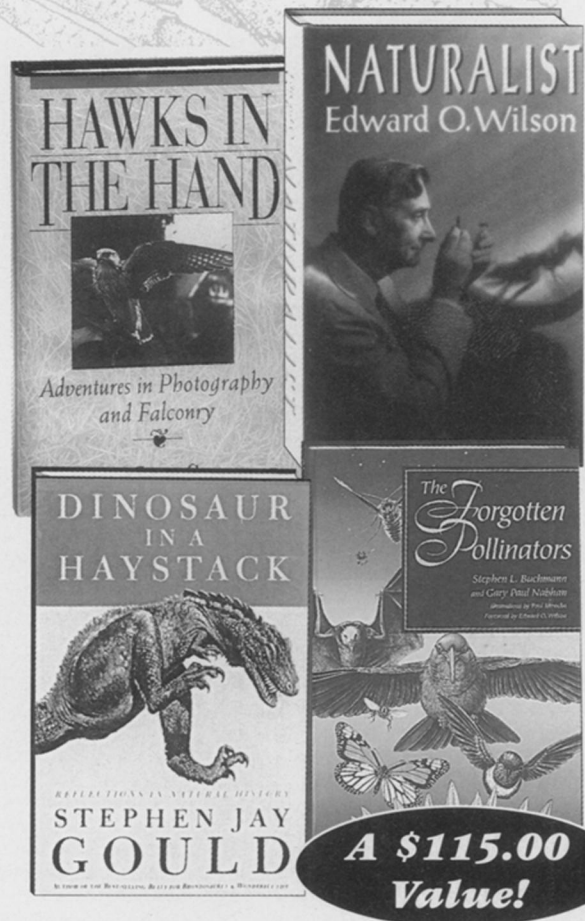

The Forgotten Pollinators

Stephen L. Buchmann and Gary Paul Nabhan

"[A] wonderful mixture of agronomy, botany, ecology, sociology, and zoology that takes a holistic approach to the conservation of nature."

—Mark J. Plotkin Ph.D., The Ethnobiology and Conservation Team

Explore the hidden relationships between plants and animals, and the ways in which human society affects and is affected by those relationships.
